REFERENDUM ON ELECTORAL REFORM

On May 17, 2005, the Referendum on Electoral Reform was held in conjunction with British Columbia's 38th provincial general election. Voters were provided two ballots – one for the candidates in their electoral district and one for the province-wide referendum on electoral reform.

The referendum was a province-wide vote on whether to retain the existing "First-Past-the-Post" electoral system or change to the BC-STV electoral system, as recommended by the Citizens' Assembly on Electoral Reform. The Electoral Reform Referendum Act required a referendum to be held in conjunction with the 2005 General Election, if the Citizens' Assembly recommended in their final report an electoral system different than the existing system.

This report provides an overview and the official voting results of the referendum. For information and voting results regarding the general election, see Statement of Votes, 38th Provincial General Election, May 17, 2005.

CITIZENS' ASSEMBLY ON ELECTORAL REFORM

The Citizens' Assembly on Electoral Reform was created by the Government of British Columbia in April 2003 with the unanimous support of the Legislature.

The mandate of the Citizens' Assembly, established in its terms of reference, was to "assess models for electing Members of the Legislative Assembly and issue a report recommending whether the current model for these elections should be retained or another model should be adopted".

The Citizens' Assembly was an independent, non-partisan assembly of citizens composed of 161 members – one man and one woman randomly selected from each of the 79 electoral districts, plus two First Nations members and a chair. In May 2003, the Citizens' Assembly Selection Lists Regulation authorized the Chief Electoral Officer to provide the chair of the Citizens' Assembly with a selection list to identify and contact potential members. The members were chosen from a database containing the names of 15,800 randomly selected individuals from the provincial voters list.

During 2004, the Citizens' Assembly studied various electoral systems, held public hearings across the province and accepted public submissions. In December 2004, the Citizens' Assembly released its final report, recommending the province adopt a new voting system; a form of the Single Transferable Vote called BC-STV.

LEGISLATIVE FRAMEWORK

A number of statutes and regulations provided the legislative framework for the Referendum on Electoral Reform. While the Electoral Reform Referendum Regulation established the specific procedures for administering the referendum in conjunction with the 2005 General Election, the referendum was also governed by the Election Act, Referendum Act and the Electoral Reform Referendum Act.

The Electoral Reform Referendum Act required a referendum to be held if the report of the Citizens' Assembly on Electoral Reform recommended an electoral system different from the current system. The Act established that the referendum, if required, would be held in conjunction with the May 17, 2005 General Election.

The Electoral Reform Referendum Act also established special rules for the referendum, replacing certain provisions of the Referendum Act under which the referendum was conducted. Most notably, the level of voter approval needed for the referendum result to be binding on government was higher than the simple majority required under the Referendum Act – at least 60 percent of the popular vote province-wide, and a simple majority in at least 48 of the 79 electoral districts. The Act also required the Chief Electoral Officer to announce the referendum results, rather than the Lieutenant Governor in Council as normally required by the Referendum Act.

In October 2004, the Citizens' Assembly decided to recommend that British Columbia adopt a new voting system – the British Columbia Single Transferable Vote, or BC-STV. Government subsequently passed the Electoral Reform Referendum Regulation to provide the framework for administering the referendum. In addition, the Regulation established the referendum question, as recommended by the Citizens' Assembly:

While the Electoral Reform Referendum Regulation prescribed the procedures and methodology of the referendum process, many of the sections are references to the Election Act – the Regulation simply established which sections of the Election Act were to apply for the purposes of the referendum.

The Electoral Reform Referendum Regulation established that the procedures for conducting the referendum would be, with certain exceptions, the same as for the general election. Voters could vote in the referendum at any voting opportunity at which they were entitled to vote in the general election, and counting of the referendum ballots occurred on the same days as the counting of the ballots for the election.

Legislation did not establish a role for "Yes/No" groups, and no spending limits were in place for referendum advertising sponsors. However, the Electoral Reform Referendum Regulation established that members of the Citizens' Assembly on Electoral Reform could be present during referendum voting and counting as observers.

CALENDAR OF EVENTS

The Referendum on Electoral Reform was administered in conjunction with the May 17, 2005 General Election. The calendar of events for the referendum generally paralleled the calendar of events for the general election.

The Electoral Reform Referendum Regulation established the referendum campaign period as the period beginning on March 1, 2005 and ending at the close of voting on General Voting Day.

The following is the calendar of events for the May 17, 2005 Referendum on Electoral Reform.

PUBLIC INFORMATION AND COMMUNICATIONS

Voters in British Columbia are provided more voting opportunities than in any other jurisdiction in Canada. To ensure voters across the province were informed of the May 17, 2005 Referendum on Electoral Reform, Elections BC developed a comprehensive communications strategy to educate voters about their voting rights, the voting process and where they could quickly find the information they needed.

The communications strategy included advertising in local newspapers, television, movie theatres, cable and radio, developing a comprehensive website, distribution of Where to Vote cards, four outreach liaison officers, news releases, media advisory notices and extended hours of operation for a 1-800 information centre. Advertising and other communications informed voters they would be provided two ballots – one for the election and one for the referendum.

For the first time, Elections BC played a motivational advertisement in 59 movie theatres across British Columbia from April 19 to May 17. The advertisement was designed to remind voters of the importance of democratic participation and encourage them to vote. An estimated 1.2 million people viewed this advertisement.

Elections BC also developed a special section on its website for the referendum. Election BC's website is its primary tool for delivering information to clients and promoting openness and transparency in the electoral process. The site was redesigned to make it more functional, accessible and comprehensive. Voters could quickly locate their voting place by entering their address information; a map would appear that provided detailed directions from the voter's home directly to their assigned voting place. Further information available on the website included district electoral office details, information about registration and voting opportunities and how to obtain information regarding the topic of the referendum.

Voters who were out of the province during the referendum period were able to request a mail-in voting package online. Voters were also able to register, update or confirm their voter registration information online up until the close of registration at midnight on April 26. British Columbia is the first jurisdiction in North America to have comprehensive online voter registration services.

Elections BC's website has proved to be a leading resource for voters, the media and the general public. The number of visits to Elections BC's website ranged from 2,732 to 15,930 per day during the referendum period, with a peak of 50,779 visits on General Voting Day.

Aboriginal, Chinese, Indo-Canadian and youth liaison officers were hired from November 2004 until May 31, 2005. The liaison officers' role was to raise awareness of the election and referendum process and improve participation rates in these targeted communities and groups that have generally participated at a lower rate than the general population in British Columbia elections.

The media played an integral part in ensuring voters were provided with accurate and timely information during the referendum period. Elections BC released four news releases, many media advisory notices and responded to over 2,000 television, radio and newspaper interviews.

Eighty operators were employed in the Elections BC 1-800 information centre. Extended hours of operation for the centre were in place from Writ Day (April 19) until close of voting on May 17, 2005. Operators were available Monday to Friday, 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. and Saturdays and Sundays from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. During the referendum period, the 1-800 information centre assisted the public with more than 55,000 phone inquiries.

In order to ensure its neutral role in the conduct of the referendum, Elections BC did not provide information regarding the BC-STV system recommended by the Citizens' Assembly and the current "First-Past-the-Post" system. While Elections BC ensured voters had the information they needed regarding the referendum process, government was responsible for promoting awareness and understanding of the two electoral systems.

In March 2005, a Referendum Information Office was established by government to help voters make an informed choice on the referendum question. The Referendum Information Office's mandate was to provide information about the current electoral system and the proposed BC-STV system that was recommended by the Citizens' Assembly on Electoral Reform. To ensure voters were informed on the referendum, the Referendum Information Office created a website and fact sheets, mailed a brochure to every residential household in the province, and established a toll-free information line available to voters Monday to Friday, 7:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. until General Voting Day.

VOTING

The Referendum on Electoral Reform was administered in conjunction with the 2005 General Election. In order to minimize voter confusion between the two electoral events, voting opportunities and procedures for the referendum were the same as voting opportunities and procedures for the general election.

The Electoral Reform Referendum Regulation established which specific provisions of the Election Act also applied to the referendum. Important rules and procedures that were the same included:

- qualifications to vote in the referendum were the same as for the election;
- voters could vote in the referendum at the same voting opportunities available for the election;
- voters deposited their referendum ballot and election ballot together into the same ballot box;
- if voting by absentee ballot, the referendum ballot and election ballot were placed together into the same certification envelope;
- voters could register to vote in conjunction with voting in both the referendum and general election; and
- voters signed the same voting book.

However, the Electoral Reform Referendum Regulation also established special provisions for the purposes of voting in the referendum, including:

- a referendum ballot that was easy to distinguish from the election ballot when folded;
- a copy of the Final Report of the Citizens' Assembly on Electoral Reform was required at each voting opportunity as a reference for voters; and
- voters were not required to vote in both the election and the referendum; voters could decline one of the ballots and vote in either the election or referendum.

While the great majority of voters cast ballots during advance and general voting in the Referendum on Electoral Reform, voters have been increasingly taking advantage of other voting opportunities.

If voters were unable to vote at their assigned voting place, they could vote at any other voting opportunity in the province. In addition, voters could vote at any of the 85 district electoral offices around the province starting on April 19, the day the writs of election were issued. Voters could also vote by mail if they expected to be out of the province or for other reasons provided for under the Election Act.

The table below shows the number of voters who used each voting opportunity during the 2005 Referendum on Electoral Reform. As some voters only participated in either the election or referendum, participation numbers will differ between the two events. For the number of voters who used each voting opportunity in the election, see Statement of Votes, 38th Provincial General Election, May 17, 2005.

The total number of votes considered does not include 5,163 certification envelopes that were unopened. Certification envelopes that are not completed as required by the Election Act must remain unopened and any ballots within must not be considered at the final count. As a result, the number of unopened certification envelopes is not included in the voter participation calculations.

SUMMARY OF REFERENDUM RESULTS

The voting results for the Referendum on Electoral Reform were determined during the initial count and final count in the same manner as the voting results for the general election. However, counting of the votes for the two electoral events was conducted separately; election officials were required to complete the initial count for the election before conducting the initial count for the referendum. The final count for the election was completed before the final count for the referendum began.

Referendum ballots from advance voting and general voting were counted at the initial count, following the close of voting on General Voting Day (8 p.m. Pacific time). The initial count is the preliminary count of votes marked on the ballots in the referendum, other than those contained in certification envelopes.

Ballots contained in certification envelopes from other voting opportunities, such as absentee voting and special voting, were considered at the final count. The final count is a count of the ballots in the referendum that were not considered as part of the initial count, and a determination of the results of the referendum based on the votes accepted in the initial count and final count.

The final count began at 9 a.m. on May 30, 2005 – Day 41 of the referendum period, 13 days after General Voting Day. During the period between the initial count and final count, certification envelopes containing absentee ballots are shipped to the appropriate District Electoral Officers. The final count is held in the district electoral office and may continue for up to three days. Following completion of the final count, the District Electoral Officer declares the referendum result for the electoral district.

Two thresholds were set by the Electoral Reform Referendum Act for the referendum results to be binding on government: at least 60% of the valid votes cast in support of the question stated on the referendum ballot, and in at least 48 of the 79 electoral districts, more than 50% of the valid votes cast in support of that question. Based on the final results, only one of the two thresholds was met.

The Chief Electoral Officer released the final results of the referendum on June 8, 2005, in accordance with the Electoral Reform Referendum Act.

|             | Threshold requirement                                                                 | Final results                                       | Threshold reached |
|-------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------|-------------------|
| Threshold 1 | At least 60% of valid votes cast vote 'yes'                                           | 57.69% of the total valid votes cast voted 'yes'    | No                |
| Threshold 2 | In at least 48 of 79 electoral districts more than 50% of valid votes cast vote 'yes' | 77 electoral districts voted 'yes' by more than 50% | Yes               |

As part of the final count, District Electoral Officers may recount some or all of the referendum ballots that were considered at the initial count if they had concerns regarding the validity of the results reported. The results of the referendum were final, subject to a judicial recount. No recounts of the initial count of the referendum ballots were conducted, and no requests were made for judicial recounts of the referendum ballots.

ELECTION OFFICIALS

A District Electoral Officer is appointed for each electoral district by the Chief Electoral Officer. District Electoral Officers are responsible for the conduct of electoral events, such as provincial elections, by-elections and referenda, in their respective electoral districts.

Each District Electoral Officer is also appointed as District Registrar of Voters, responsible for conducting enumerations and other voter registration activities in their electoral districts.

At least one Deputy District Electoral Officer is also appointed by the Chief Electoral Officer to assist the District Electoral Officer. Each Deputy District Electoral Officer is also appointed as Deputy District Registrar of Voters for their electoral district.

Government Agents were also appointed by the Chief Electoral Officer as Deputy District Registrars of Voters. Service BC – Government Agents provide voters with convenient access to voter registration services and electoral information in 59 offices across B.C.

District Electoral Officers must appoint a sufficient number of election officials to conduct voting proceedings in their electoral district. District Electoral Officers hired a total of 29,676 voting officials for the 2005 General Election and Referendum on Electoral Reform. Election officials worked in 1,656 voting places established throughout the province – 191 advance voting places and 1,465 general voting places. In addition, a total of 862 people were hired to provide administrative support in the 85 district electoral offices.
